

Lost Pilot's Wife Awaits News from Italy

Mrs. Kay Vassalotti, wife of Naval Reserve Lt. Nicholas A. Vassalotti, 29, of 64 Gamewood Road, Goldenridge section, is calmly awaiting news of her husband whom she "feels very close to" although he was aboard the plane carrying Willow Grove personnel, still reported missing over northern Italy.

The young bride of three months had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Murphy, of Warrington, Florida, when she received the news on Saturday.

Speaking from the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Hilliard, 4 Round Meadow Lane, Hatboro, Mrs. Vassalotti told of her plane flight from Warrington on Saturday night after Mrs. Hilliard had called her there.

"They had some trouble locating me," said the calm, hopeful young wife, "I had left Mrs. Hilliard's phone number with my neighbor in case of emergency. The Willow Grove Navy Chaplain came to the house but, on finding me away, contacted my sister-in-law."

Devout Catholics

Mrs. Vassalotti said today that she and her husband are devout Catholics, having pointed the Immaculate Conception Church after moving to Levittown last February.

"I'm so very comforted by my faith," she said, adding, "I feel close to Nick and know that if it's God's will to spare him, we will be reunited . . . on the other hand, if he is lost to me I know he isn't lost to God."

Lt. Vassalotti, a flight instructor in the Navy for eight years, met his wife while at the Naval Station in Pensacola, Florida. He is a native of Philadelphia and she was born in Virginia.

Rand Employee

At present he is employed by Rand, Inc., at McGuire Air Force Base. The couple moved to Levittown on February first of this year from their home in Boston, Mass.

Nine reservists and two men on active duty at Willow Grove were on the plane, a P2V Neptune patrol bomber from Patrol Squadron 934 which was one of five aircraft that left last Sunday on a two-week tour of duty in the Mediterranean area.

The Navy reported that the plane vanished in rain-filled skies as it came in for a landing Friday at Treviso, Italy. No sign has been seen of it since, although Italian Alpine brigades scoured the mountainous north Italian region. Constant radio appeals went out to villages to ask for reports of wreckage.

Search Prevented

The furious rainstorms lashing the area prevented an air search. Airport officials speculated that the plane may have run into a whirlwind.

The plane took off from Casablanca early Friday for the 1,400 mile hop to Treviso. Shortly after 1:30 p.m., nearly dead on schedule, the plane came into contact with Istriana Airport and asked permission to lose height for landing.

The control tower messaged all clear and normal signals were exchanged. Thirteen minutes later, radio links with the plane suddenly cut. Two search planes that were sent up immediately by Milan's Air Rescue Service were forced to land almost at once due to bad visibility.

WEATHER

Mostly fair and continued hot but with scattered late afternoon or evening thundershowers. Highest 95 to 100. Partly cloudy and warm tonight with a few scattered thundershowers. Lowest 70 to 75, clearing and becoming cooler tomorrow.

Drought-Hit Areas Renew Water Pleas

Bristol, Upper Southampton, and Morrisville, the three areas hit hardest by the water shortage, continued to urge cooperation by the residents to help the situation. Cars got dirtier and lawns browner in Bristol and adjoining township areas today as cooperative citizens continued their response to a plea to save water.

As a result the water situation over the weekend was greatly improved over the Thursday low. Last night the borough tanks, which hold water to a 25-dep, held 15 feet of the precious supply during the peak use hours, 9 to 11 p.m.

Borough police who observed lawn and car sprinkling on their tours have stopped to tell homeowners to close spigots. But it has also been observed that those who evade the lawn watering ban now turn on their hoses from 9 to 11 p.m., when they're harder to spot.

No White-Sidewall Airman Sentenced

DONALD WHEELER
With Haircut
(United Press Telephoto)

FUCHU, Japan (UP)—A court martial board found a young American airman guilty of disobeying an order in refusing to get a "white-sidewall" haircut and sentenced him to four months imprisonment at hard labor.

The board also reduced Airman 3C Donald Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., to the rank of Airman Basic (private) and fined him $30 monthly for four months.

"I do not think this is fair," Wheeler said as he choked back the tears after the sentencing.

The 20-year-old Wheeler balked at getting the haircut — one with shaved sides and a fringe on the top — while a member of the honor guard at the U.N.-Far East Command Headquarters at Pershing Heights in downtown Tokyo.

Three of the four officers on the board turned up at the final day of the court sporting new haircuts. They deliberated 43 minutes before returning a verdict.

On the board trying the case was a lieutenant colonel, two majors and a captain. The colonel and the

Sheppard Lie Test Cancelled By Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill today called off a scheduled lie-detector test for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard until the "truthfulness" of a Florida convict's confession that he killed Mrs. Sheppard can be checked.

O'Neill cancelled the test for the convicted wife slayer after receiving a telegram from the Court of Last Resort which is conducted by mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner and a national magazine.

The telegram said:

Goldenridger Breaks Door, Quells Blaze

A Goldenridge man spent yesterday engaged in volunteer humanitarianism, and wound up slightly the worse for smoke but well satisfied as to his good deeds.

Seymour Blatt, 39, of 39 Grapevine Road, Goldenridge was credited with saving his neighbor's home from extensive damage by dashing into the burning building, pulling burning clothes outside and using a garden hose on the flaming wall until the Edgely Fire Company arrived.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Blatt took four-year-old Billy Kunz, son of Ann and John Kunz of 50 Grapevine Road to Lower Bucks County Hospital after the boy, who had fallen down while playing, exhibited signs of concussion. Billy was treated for contusions after concussion was ruled out, and dismissed.

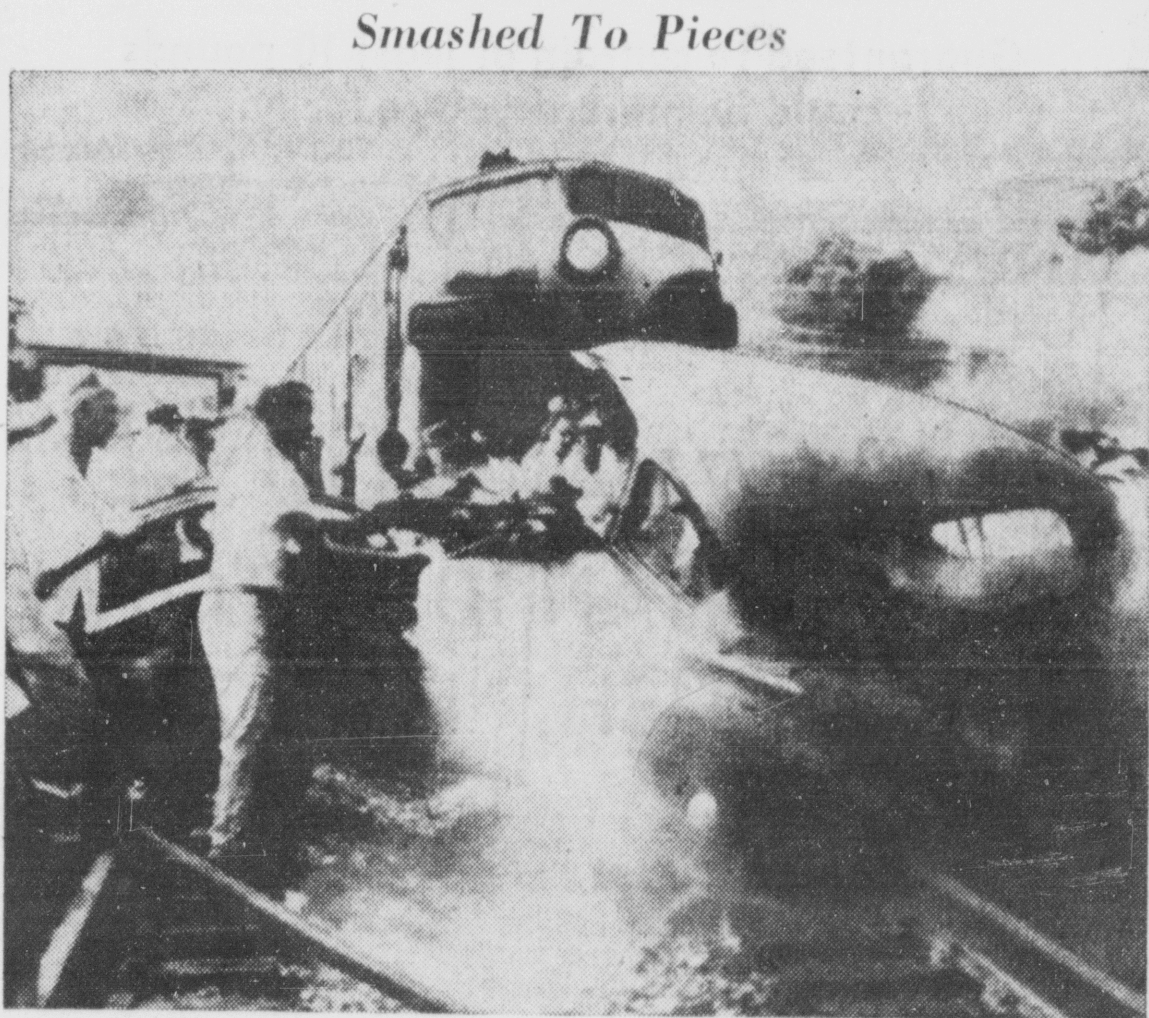

Goos To Aid

Later, another neighbor, Mrs. Patrick Garriety of 41 Grapevine Road summoned Mr. Blatt when she saw smoke pouring from the home of Coleman Needelman, 31, directly across the street.

Wayne Blatt, his 14 year old son, called the Edgely Fire Company while his father ran over to the house.

Needelman, who is employed by a dry cleaning firm, and his family had gone for a ride and Blatt had to break the door lock to enter. He ran into a blazing spare bedroom and pulled burning clothing from the closet. After taking them outside he returned and worked the fire with a garden hose after first turning off a large exhaust fan that was drawing air into the house.

Critics Claim Bensalem Officer Averts Gang Fight

WASHINGTON—UP — Senate critics of the administration civil rights bill claimed a minimum of 50 votes today—a clear majority—to kill its most controversial provision.

This forecast came on the heels of a renewed defense of the entire measure by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. He supported all its most contested features and said "public opinion is so aroused" behind the bill that the Senate will reject any attempt to compromise its main features.

With the Senate starting its third week of debate on the bill, a vote was expected today or Tuesday on the most fought-over section—Part III. It would permit the Justice Department to get in (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Top-Name Stars Set For Outdoor Show

A spectacular variety show featuring top-name entertainers will be presented outdoors at the Langhorne Speedway Saturday, August 24, by Community Enterprises, Inc.

Plans for the show were announced today by Warren Jennings, a founder of the organization and chairman of its coordinating committee.

This will be the first annual show sponsored by the group, to benefit several non-profit and charitable organizations of Lower Bucks County. Producers of the gigantic show will be the Stage and Arena Guild of America, under the personal direction of Irving Strause and Robert Mayberry. In addition, Community Enterprises will have the professional counselling of George Hamid, nationally known showman, Howard Bary, of Ringling Brothers Circus and Mel Smith, of the Buckingham Zoo.

The show committee has been busy contacting the nation's favorite entertainers for the show. Available and now talking terms are the Four Aces, Jaye P. Morgan, Bert Parks, the June Taylor (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Area Bakes; May Top 100 Again Today

Lower Bucks residents stayed close to the air conditioner, the ice cold bath and the water cooler today as the thermometer moved for the century mark again.

In a pool of sweat, the mercury soared to a year's high of 101 degrees at 5 p.m. yesterday, just missing a 1930 record of 102 for the date.

At 1 p.m. today the temperature was 96 degrees. The weather bureau reported that in a half-hour's time, 1:30 p.m., the temperature jumped a full degree to 97.

Bristol and Morrisville continued to ask residents to "go easy" with the water as the drought robbed the Delaware River of its supply.

The river was slightly under three inches with a normal of this time of the year about 24 inches.

Resorts Jammed

Shore resorts, mountain areas, and beaches all around were clogged with Lower Bucks residents searching for heat relief.

It was all to no avail as the heat for miles around was always close to the 100 mark in most areas.

The weatherman wouldn't say for sure but a chance of a shower this afternoon might bring some relief.

Temperatures overnight will drop only to about 80 with tomorrow's outlook for a reading in the high 90's.

Today is the fifth day with 90 degree or over temperatures but the Weather Bureau said the heat spell will crack by Wednesday with temperatures not expected to reach even 90 that date.

Bathers swarmed at the Tullytown municipal beach on Van Sciver Lake. Because cars overflowed the parking lot operated by the fire company, police had to relax the parking ban on North Main St., to prevent a jam.

Acting Police Chief Pat Coia said traffic through Tullytown was heavy over the weekend. There were no accidents, however.

Yesterday's sweltering heat attracted some 2,000 bathers to Silver Lake, Bristol, the biggest crowd of the year, according to Ascanio Grimaldi, of Second Ave. Now a Bucks County Park, the lake area has picnic facilities, as well as water, to attract vacationers.

Talking It Over

Mrs. Patrick Garrity, 41 Grapevine Road, Goldenridge, tells John Doster, chief of the Edgely Fire Company how she saw smoke pouring from the home of Coleman Needelman, 42 Grapevine Road, yesterday and summoned another neighbor, Seymour Blatt of number 39. Mr. Blatt forced the door and rushed into the house to shut off a large exhaust fan that was blowing air in, gathered blazing clothing from a bedroom closet, and returned to douse the fire with a garden hose while his son, 14-year-old Wayne, summoned the first company. (Courier and Times photo)

Firemen Still Battle Stubborn Woods Blaze

Two Sought After Robbing Hills Man

Hamilton township police pressed their investigation this morning for two robbers who held up a Fairless Hills service station attendant and escaped with $283.

Police declined to give a description of the two men pending further investigation.

A township detective said today that the men who held up the White Horse Circle Esso service station were Negroes. A general alarm is out for them.

The men, at 3:30 a.m. yesterday, took a cash register containing the money from attendant Andrew Demitsky, 25, of 827 Trenton Road, Fairless Hills.

Demitsky could not be reached this morning.

However, the New Jersey police said the two held Demitsky at gun point after entering the station on a ruse.

"Disabled" Auto

The bandits first asked Demitsky if he could repair their "disabled" auto, but Demitsky told them he couldn't leave the station, police said.

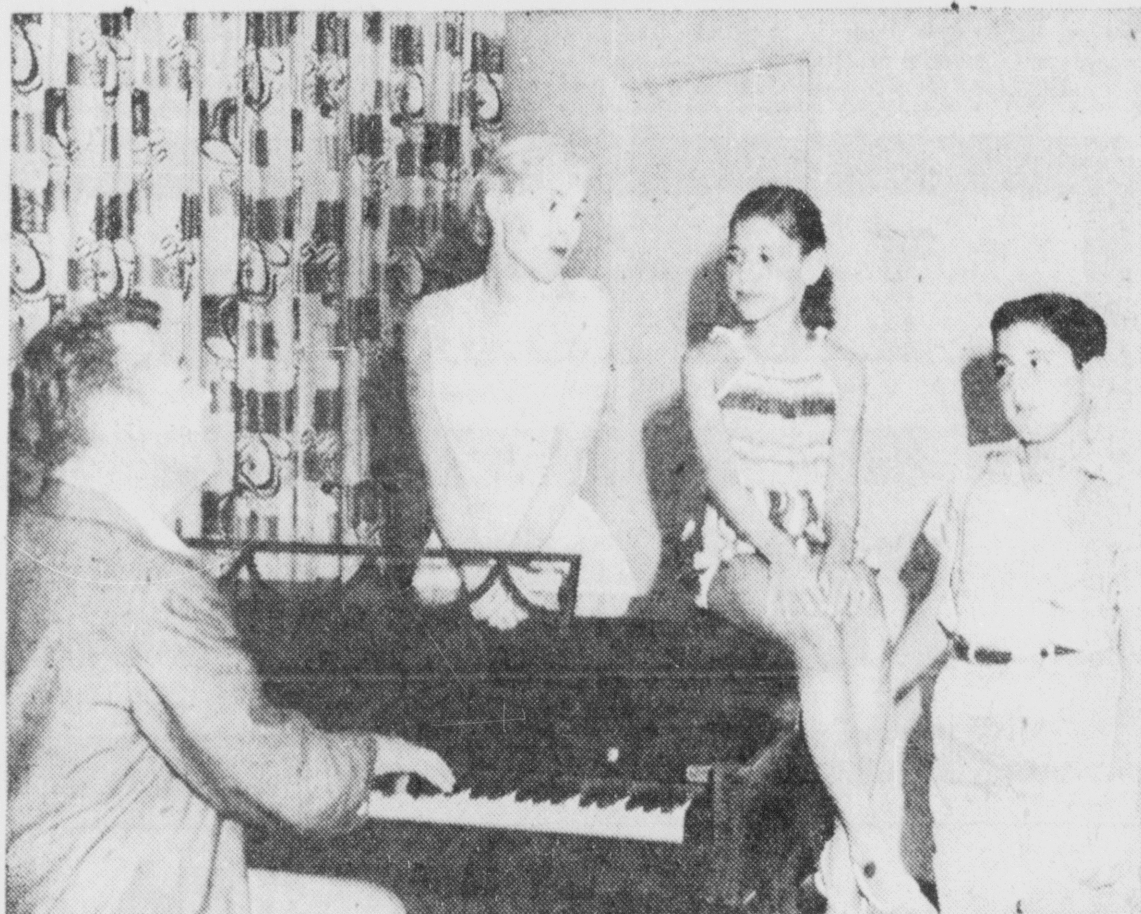

Demitsky walked into the lubrication room at the station while one of the robbers entered a telephone booth. The second followed Demitsky, pulled out a revolver, and said, "This is a stickup."

He warned Demitsky to stay in the room, but when the attendant went back into the office, the robber warned: "You want to get shot? Get back into the room."

Demitsky complied and when the robbers left the station with the cash register, he called police.

The register was found in the afternoon in Crosswicks Creek, N.J.

3 Companies Are Called Again Today

Three fire companies rushed to the scene of the weekend long brush fire that has been flaring up since Friday, in an attempt at noon today to finally extinguish it.

Edgely, District 3 and Levittown 2 were called when the fire flared up once again today after an all out attempt yesterday with a bulldozer proved to have been futile after all.

This weekend the blaze, after apparently having been extinguished, flared up at intervals, bringing firemen to the scene more than ten times.

According to police, the fire was set off late Friday afternoon when a match was dropped in the woods by two children, aged four and five.

The firemen wet down homes on Dogwood Drive as the dwellings were sprayed by ashes from the woods. Late Saturday a bulldozer was put into operation to plow up the brush and trees.

Firemen reported that the Levittown homes are in no great danger from the fire, since the drive separated them from the woods.

Water Pleas

toured Croydon Saturday to pass word of the conservation plea.

The sprinkling ban was ordered by Council DiMedio, chairman of the water committee of Borough Council, several weeks ago.

If the tanks should go dry, it would leave the borough in a critical situation if there was a fire.

Well Averts Shortage

Nicholas Mislan, borough council president in Morrisville, said the well has proven itself and has averted a "definitely more serious situation."

Mr. Mislan said the well has been pumping steadily during the drought and he is hopeful continued service will prevent any dangerous water situation in the borough.

The well is pumping strongly now but the water ban in the borough will continue for an indefinite period, Borough Secretary Robert H. Steward said today.

A ban was imposed Friday night preventing the use of hoses except for the hours of 8 and 10 a.m.

Borough police are circulating among the residents warning them of the water shortage and advising them to keep the hoses off.

"We are hopeful the residents will cooperate," Mr. Steward said "but if not, we'll have to plan more drastic measures to hold our water supply."

Levittown Tot Hurt In Carport Mishap

A blue-eyed, blond child gave vent to her curiosity yesterday and ended in Lower Bucks County Hospital.

The child, Janet Tucker, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Tucker, 46 Redbrook Lane, Red Cedar Hill, Levittown, narrowly escaped serious injury in a carport accident.

Cut Scalp

She suffered a cut scalp, and her mother said this morning that hospital doctors have ruled out the possibility of a fractured skull.

The sequence leading to the accident happened shortly before 6 p.m.

Janet was playing in an enclosed carport area while Mrs. Tucker was working inside the house.

She climbed over the enclosure without her mother noticing and began playing on the adjoining carport.

Stirred Curiosity

The slates on the patio stirred her curiosity, she lifted one, and it fell back on her finger.

Janet screamed, and as her mother ran out, the child held her breath from the pain. While Mrs. Tucker was two feet away, trying frantically to open the enclosure gate, Janet fell over backwards and hit her head.

Mrs. Tucker said this morning, "If I had gotten through the gate faster, she would never have fallen."

Mr. Tucker took the baby to the hospital, and the child's mother said she may be released today.

Mrs. Tucker said the girl was badly frightened and screamed continuously, but she did not pass out.

Janet has five brothers, ages 5, 4, and 3 years old; 15 months and six weeks old.

Area Man

Dies At 77

Eugene W. Taylor, of North Main Street, Tullytown, died at his home Saturday after a long illness. He was 77.

Mr. Taylor was married to the late Matilda Taylor. For the past 14 years he had lived in Tullytown. He made his home at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Dominic Pirolli.

Born in Burlington, N.J., Mr. Taylor moved to Edgely, and was a charter member of the Edgely Fire Co. He was a carpenter, and during the war years worked for the Rohm and Haas Co.

Surviving, with Mrs. Pirolli are Mrs. William Cunn, Edgely, and Mrs. Theresa Walters, Trenton, N.J., daughters and Eugene Taylor, Trenton, a son. There are eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at Molden's Funeral Chapel, Bristol. Viewing will be tonight. Interment will be in Bristol cemetery.

Berkes Says Hacker Skips Sewer Problems

Democratic Supervisor Milton Berkes accused Republican Edler Hacker, chairman of Falls Township Board, of "placing politics above his township responsibilities" regarding the sewer situation in the township.

Berkes said "Hacker skipped out of the most important meeting held on the sewers last week to help his Republican cronies in their attempts to pressure the school board into appointing Republican members to vacancies."

A Democrat and a Republican were appointed to the school board in what was hailed as triumph for "bi-partisan politics." Berkes said, "Hacker stated publicly that nothing was more important than solving the sewer problem."

Stark was thrown back on the patrol car, the policeman said. Stark then pulled a tire iron from his trousers and started for Uhl. Ashton said. The policeman jumped from his car, hit Stark's wrist with a judo cut and knocked the weapon from his hand.

Ashton pulled his night stick and got Stark into the patrol car, warning the others to stay put until he called for assistance on his radio.

Patrolmen George Walker, Lawrence Michaels and William Johnson rolled up in short time and took the group into custody.

Six of the group of 12, who were 18 years of age or older, were held in $25 bail each by Bristol Township Justice of the Peace Rene Tritschler. They'll have a further hearing before the JP today. The others were placed in their parents' custody, pending Juvenile Court action.

Fish Poisoned In Area Creek

Falls Township police have not been able to determine who threw the substance in Queen Anne Creek, Fairless Hills, responsible for killing thousands of fish in the creek but deemed "harmless" to humans.

Police received a report Saturday afternoon that dead fish were floating on the top of the creek near Olds Boulevard.

Sgt. Gilbert Custer and Officer John Taft, Falls Township Police, investigated and found the area strewn with dead fish.

Dr. Glenn W. Bricker, Levittown, was called. He took samples of the water and fish and had chemical analysis made at Rolling Hills Hospital in Philadelphia.

Chief Franklin Kirby said the tests revealed the fish were poisoned by a foreign substance. However, no damage would be done to any persons eating any of the fish, he said.

Queen Anne Creek has its source in Caroline Lake and goes through sections of Levittown and other sections of Falls Township before it empties into Silver Lake on Route 13 and Bath Road, Bristol Township.

with his family just as the fire was extinguished. He estimated the damage at $1,000.

The firemen congratulated Blatt for his fast action, especially noting the stopping of the exhaust fan which could have caused the fire to burn the house out in a very short time. Blatt was slightly sickened by inhaling too much smoke.

THE STORY: Dr. Garde Shelton has just learned that Valley Standfield had an important part in bringing about a fight between Dr. Kurt Lillard and Ben Lillard. Kurt was convicted of Ben's murder, but many people believe he was innocent.

XVII

NAN bent over double at the waist to read what was printed on the bag. Still in this position she glanced around at Garde. "You know, don't you, that your only reward for all this hard labor will be to watch Valley's smugness at her horticultural triumph."

"Oh, yes," Garde agreed, "she'll be unbearable."

Nan laughed with delight at his matter of fact tone. "Why do you do it?"

"Oh," he said slowly, "I have a feeling against all loss and destruction."

She went over to sit on the steps behind him. The pleated skirt she wore spread out around her knees like a pale green fan. "That seems a proper sort of feeling," she decided, "for a medical man."

He bent again to his task and after a bit said casually—so casually, that even to Nan, it seemed that he spoke his thoughts aloud. "I feel you know," he said, pausing between every other word to jab his short trowel into the dirt, "very much the same about young Lillard. There's been a terrific waste there if that man didn't kill the Laurent boy."

"He didn't," said Nan's clear voice behind him.

Garde glanced at her over his bare shoulder which glistened a little in the dusk. "THERE'S something odd about the whole affair," Garde told her. "Looking at the story as a newcomer here in town—I can't put my finger on it. You know, a soft spot in the progression of things. I find myself using the word 'incredible' each time the subject comes up for discussion."

"I too can't understand why things have gone—as they have. I often wish Ben were around so that..."

"Well, yes," said Garde dryly "that would solve a great many things."

"I meant his interest in psychological things. It was a hobby of his. He read widely on the subject and talked a lot about it. He was always explaining things by it. Why Mable Ross had twins when she was 46, why I always considered the flavors of ice cream, and then always chose chocolate..."

Garde slipped his arms into his shirt and went over to sit on the step below Nan.

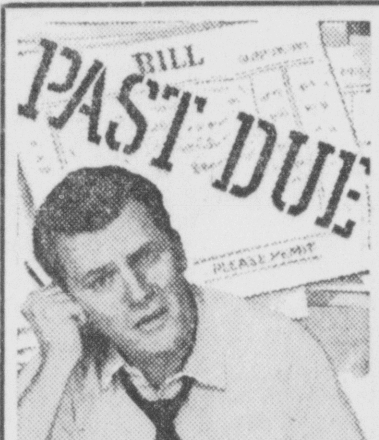

Nan talked on with absorption. "Ben analyzed everything. Once he told me why people liked me. He said probably that no one would ever love me with great passion, but that I'd always be liked."

Garde snorted. "How old was Ben?"

"When he said that? Oh—18, I think. Once he made Valley perfectly furious—"

"Explaining what?"

"I don't know. But he talked to her enough about something to

Authority To Seek Cost For Sewers

The goal of the Morrisville Authority regarding the present sewer hassle which has involved four municipalities is to determine in dollars and cents the cost per unit family.

John Whalen, secretary of the Morrisville Authority, said once this is achieved "we can intelligently proceed with the discussion."

To accomplish this end the representatives of the municipalities involved, Falls, Lower Makefield, Yardley and Morrisville, will meet in a committee Thursday to attempt to get "some answers."

Mr. Whalen said representatives of the engineering firms serving the Morrisville and Falls Authority will be at the meeting.

The session is listed for Fallington at an exact time and place to be determined later.

The ten man committee will include two supervisors from Lower Makefield, two from Falls and two from Morrisville, and two representatives from the Morrisville and Falls Authorities.

M. Whalen said the first session last week among all the interested parties was "a good step forward."

"It seems more evident," he said "that a possible solution to the problem may be either the forming of a Lower Makefield Authority with lines into Falls and Morrisville, or a proposition in which both authorities would serve separate areas."

St. Ignatius School Bids To Be Awarded

Contracts for work on the new St. Ignatius School in Yardley will be awarded soon with work to begin as soon as possible.

The new eight-room school will be located on Reading Ave. with construction expected to take about a year.

The Rev. Edward Stapleton, pastor of the church, said final details of the construction have not yet been reached.

about pop music, and his parents let him install any sort of hi-fi equipment he wanted. I haven't been to their house recently, but there used to be a perfect maze of wires and stuff.

"I remember another time. He disappeared and finally he was found in the country sleeping in a hay mow. He said he wanted to get back to his farming ancestors. The story went around town that the farmer offered him a pitchfork to get him still farther back, but that sounds like one of Dewey Windsor's tales."

It did, and Garde chuckled. He reached for his tobacco pouch and said, "Such people, Nan, are sometimes dangerous."

"Oh, he wasn't," Garde refilled his pipe and lit it. In the light of the match, Nan studied his expression. "You don't believe me?"

"Afraid not. I'd be ready to believe that whoever killed him did so in self-defense."

Soviet Atom Output Children See Reduced Drastically Phils Game

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—An American atomic expert said today the Russians have been forced to make "drastic reductions" in their "grandiose plans" for nuclear power.

This country "would be silly in deed," he said, "to let unsupported and irrational claims as to (Soviet) capabilities distort and warp sound U.S. policies and programs."

These remarks were made by W. Kenneth Davis, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's reactor development division, at the Midwest regional conference of the Council of State Governments.

Davis strongly defended the EC's program for development of many technical approaches to atomic power against congressional criticism that the United States is losing "in some kind of hypothetical 'nuclear kilowatt race.'"

50 Expected In Aqua Show

Morrisville swimmers are splashing gaily along this week in preparation for the third aqua show of the season Wednesday.

More than 50 swimmers are expected to perform at the Morrisville Community Pool, according to Alex McDonald, pool director.

The members of the Union and Capital View Fire Companies and their auxiliaries will be guests at the pool for the show.

Mr. McDonald said about 250 guests are expected to be entertained in the pool under the lights.

The aqua show is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Beginners, intermediates and advanced swimmers will demonstrate their prowess at the aqua show.

Doctor Nature

By Dr. Meade Whiteside, D.C.

Some people have a peculiar opinion as to what Chiropractic is, to what extent and to what limits it can be applied to them. A common question is, what can you Chiropractors do for a broken leg? or an open wound? The answer would be nothing insofar as giving an adjustment. We would send them to a surgeon to set the break or dress the wound. If the dressings are kept clean, nature does the healing. Then the question would arise "What is nature?" The Chiropractic contention is that nature is the force or energy which eliminates from the brain. The nervous system transmits this energy to all parts of the body, controlling and regulating all bodily processes. The lack of this energy to any part of the body would result in loss of function or disease.

Locating and releasing any interference with the flow of the forces of nature is the Chiropractic objective, so that all healing and recovery will come from within the body.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific Chiropractic, written by Dr. Meade Whiteside, D.C., whose office is located at 24 E. Franklin St., Morrisville, Pa.)

Apartment Zoning Meeting Set By Morrisville Boro

The Borough of Morrisville at a special meeting tomorrow is expected to approve a zoning amendment which would be the final go-ahead for the proposed $2,000,000 apartment building, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, Washington St.

Nicholas Mislan, president of the borough council, called the special session to amend the borough's zoning provisions.

Under present borough ordinances, no building the projected height of the 14-story structure would be allowed.

Proposal

A proposal is to be offered by Edward Mannix, chairman of the ordinance committee, to change the zoning ordinance to provide for such a structure as well as to make other apartments permissible in the borough.

Trenton builder Louis Cahan stated he "definitely intends" to build the apartment in Morrisville if the borough council gives its approval.

He said the building on East Trenton Ave. and Crown St. would take about a year to construct and probably be started early this fall.

Rental for the apartments are to be $50 a room per month. The building will consist of two, three, four and five room apartments.

Borough officials are hopeful the building will attract a "middle aged professional type of family," from Trenton.

It is the hope of the officials favorable to the building that its construction will produce a valuable new ratable in the borough lowering tax rates for all residents.

Another favorable consideration is that fact that 168 families in the apartment will lower the sewer rental for all other family units on the sewer line in the borough.

Optimists Host Team

Members of the Yardley-Makefield Optimist Club were hosts at a picnic last week for the Little League team the club sponsors.

The picnic took place at Washington Crossing Park with the fathers of the ballplayers invited as well.

The team, which is in second place in the Little League, is managed by J. D. DeMinico and C. Verville.

Will Johnson, publicity director for the club, said a ball game was played between the fathers and the Little Leaguers with the Little Leaguers winning.

Committee members included C. Shropshire, B. Ivins, L. Speakman and C. Verville.

Members of the Optimist Club, whose motto is a "Friend of the Boy," lauded the team and their managers in their youth program.

Morrisville, Yardley Girls Attend Camp

Four Morrisville and four Yardley Girl Scouts are among Girl Scouts attending Camp Shehaqua during the second camping period which runs to July 26.

Operated jointly by five Girl Scout Councils, the camp is located in the Hickory Run State Park near White Haven, Pa.

The Morrisville Scouts are Penny Bair, Cynthia Clark, Laurie Gift, and Robin Gift.
